QUEER FACTS ABOUT RAIN.

One Catches Less Water by Walking Than Running in a Downpour—A Possible Explanation.

"Do you know," said the observant citizen, according to the Philadelphia Press, "the habit of running through the rain is based on a definite fallacy? It is a common habit. But does it tend to minimize the amount of water falling on a person exposed to the rain? I am convinced that it rather aggravates the situation. By experience, in passing the distance of a block, running one time and walking the other, and at times when the rainfall was about the same, I found that my clothes picked up more water and were consequently damper when I covered the distance in a run than they were when I walked it."

"There seems to be a good reason for the rather queer fact. Rain falls irregularly. Sometimes there is a space of five or six inches between the falling drops, as we have noticed on smooth surfaces, like a stone flagging, and again only the fraction of an inch will separate the drops. Water occasionally falls in sheets, but this is not usual. But while the fall is irregular, considered with respect to the perpendicular lines described in the descent, looking straight ahead and through the lines we will find before us a sheet of water that is well-nigh solid. We can understand that running against this sheet of water will have very much the same effect wind would have if its direction forced the rain into our faces. We simply pick up the water, and the fact that the spaces between the drops perpendicularly considered are greater than the spaces in any given direction horizontally will explain to us the fallacy of the whole thing."

Ambergris.

A hundred pounds of ambergris has been seized at Seattle as stolen property. The appraised value is $30 an ounce, or $48,000 for the hundred pounds. A hundred pounds of pure gold would not be worth as much as $16,000. Ambergris is scarcer than gold. It is more of an uncertain quantity. It is harder to find and harder to transport. It is found floating in lumps in the ocean, and occasionally in the intestines of the sperm whale. There are, however, few sperm whales available, and the lumps of ambergris have been growing scarcer as the whales have decreased in number.

Dealing in Broken Glass.

One of the novel trades of London is that of a dealer in second-hand plate-glass. Nearly all of this glass is bought by the dealer from insurance companies. The large plates of this kind of glass are insured when put in a window, and when any of them are broken, the owner of the insured glass usually prefers that the insurance company should replace the broken plate rather than he should be paid its price. The dealer in the second-hand glass contrives to utilize what remains of the unbroken part of the glass, cutting it into panes of smaller size, and disposing of them afterwards.

Value of Inoculation.

Of 400 natives belonging to the American mission at Rahuri, Bombay, India, who were inoculated against plague, only one girl caught the disease, and she recovered.

Voluminous Letter Writer.

Few people, the London Athenaeum thinks, can have beaten Goethe as a correspondent. The Weimar edition of his works will include, according to recent computation, some 48 volumes, containing about 13,000 letters.

Old Times Recalled.

Janesville authorities have officially decided that young people may make love on the schoolhouse steps. Perhaps they had better look back and consider

MARVELS OF FRUIT BREEDING.

How Orchard and Garden Hybrids Are Created—Work That Requires Plenty of Patience.

"The method of crossing two fruits," as described by Mr. Marcus Woodward in Pearson's, "is simplicity itself. The horticulturist merely takes the pollen from the flower of one specimen and dusts it into the stigma of the flower of another specimen. The result is a hybrid, for better or for worse."

"Of course the experiment is not made quite at haphazard without a certain knowledge of Nature's mysterious ways and laws of production. There is a story of a man who thought he would produce some marvelous new fruit or flower, he dared not think which, by collecting the pollen of his garden flowers, and dusting it upon the flowers of his apple tree! But there is a limit even to fruit-breeding. Five years—possibly ten years—must pass before there can be any certainty. Then one spring, at last the seedlings themselves bear fruit."

"The fruit slowly ripens, and is brought to judgment. There is an exciting moment when it is tasted. Many points are taken into consideration. Is the flavor good? Is the fruit a good color? Does the flesh separate freely from the stone? Is it as juicy as it should be?"

"A great work of selection now begins. Only the finest are allowed to survive."

WEARING OF THE MONOCLE.

Little Affected in America, But Considered Quite the Thing Among the English Swells.

The single eyeglass, or monocle, is worn by only two Philadelphians, says the Philadelphia Record. A half-dozen New Yorkers wear it, and, even in Chicago, it has a couple of votaries. An oculist talked about it the other day:

"Dr. Kitchener, back in 1824, thought it a good thing," he said. "Kitchener advised its alternate use, now in the right eye, now in the left one. He said in his book that he had cultivated the habit of picking up the glass, each time he wanted to use it, with a different hand. Of course, picked up with the right hand, it had to go into the right eye, and vice versa."

"As a matter of fact, the single eyeglass is injurious. It throws all the work on one eye. It destroys the harmony of the optic muscles and nerves. I know an Englishman who has worn, for a myopic affection, a monocle in his left eye for 12 years. The left eye is all right, but with the other the man can see practically nothing."

"Joseph Chamberlain wears his monocle in either eye alternately, and his son does the same thing. The habit of the monocle continues to live among the English swells."

PLUMBER CAT.

Ingenious Device by Which Woman Sets a Feline to Discover Leak in a Pipe.

Making her cat act as her plumber was the ingenious feat that a woman of Manayunk accomplished the other day, says the Philadelphia Record. This woman had noticed that one of the pipes connected with the washstand in her bathroom leaked, and she wished to locate the leak precisely, without tearing out any more of her wall than was needful. Accordingly, she shut her cat up in the parlor—the parlor is directly below the bathroom—and into the basin of the defective washstand she poured a vial of the oil of valerian. Cats are excessively fond of the odor of valerian; a cat would rather inhale this odor than eat fish. The Manayunk woman's cat, after it had been in the parlor a few minutes, began to purr. Purring, it crossed the room; it settled itself on the floor with its face to one spot on the wall, and here its mistress found it when she came downstairs, its nose glued to the spot, sniffing and purring ecstatically. The wall was opened at this point, and here, sure enough, the leak was found. Here the valerian had trickled through, imparting its intoxicating odor to the cat.

INTEREST IN COTTON GROWING

Prominent British Merchant Says America Will Soon Want for Home Use All Raised There.

Interest has been renewed in the cotton growing experiments being conducted in West Africa, through an interview given by Sir Alfred Jones, a prominent Liverpool, England, merchant, who has been studying the production of cotton for three years. He declares that the United States will soon want for home uses all the cotton grown there.

"About ten years ago," he said, "America produced about 7,000,000 bales of cotton and Great Britain took half of it. Now America produces 11,000,000 bales and Britain takes no more than she did ten years ago. Then the British Cotton Growing association was started and the results of the association's work have been more satisfactory than I anticipated. The whole of the West African colonies and the West Indies have been made to take a deep interest in the question of raising cotton and are working exceedingly well. America may yet have to look to West Africa for her cotton supply, because I believe cotton will be produced more cheaply in West Africa than in the United States."

An Explanation.

According to one of the scientific journals more than 8,000,000 of the 13,500,000 people of Mexico do not work, says the Chicago Record-Herald. No wonder some of the Mexicans are opposed to having BRIDES FOR SOUTH AFRICANS.

Every Outgoing English Steamer Bound for Cape Town Has a Number of Prospective Wives.

Hardly a mail steamer leaves England for Cape Town without bearing on board an English bride for a sweetheart who has gone before to provide a home in that land of promise, says a London dispatch.

Not infrequently the list of passengers includes three or four brides, who ingeniously confide their secret to each other with the result that the vessel is seldom many days at sea before the bride becomes known all over the ship. Sailors consider it lucky to have brides on board.

The bridegrooms meet them at the landing place, and forthwith they repair to a public office to be married by special license, while genial Jack Tars crowd the gangway and throw rice among the bride's hair.

These marriages are mostly happy sequences to the conclusion of the war, many Yeoman having decided to settle in South Africa and bring thither the girls they had left behind them.

But there have been exceptions. Filtrations on board—no place equals a ship's deck for that pastime—have brought bitter disappointment to waiting bridegrooms. Sometimes girls get engaged on the voyage to fellow passengers or members of the crew, and arrive at the Cape "off" with the old love and on with the new."

It has also been recently observed that young girls are going to South Africa from England in increasing numbers as domestic servants in the smaller up-country towns. If they have not calculated upon the chances of matrimony, they are not long in their new home before offers come along for their selection.

A SCIENTIST'S BELIEF.

Hindu Investigator Maintains That Metals Have Life as Well as Animals and Vegetables.

"A remarkable discovery," A. Sarath Kumar Ghosh asserts in Pearson's, in his article on Life in Metals, "that has recently been made will mark a new era in the progress of science, for it sweeps away many a pet theory we have hitherto fondly cherished. From time immemorial scientists have vainly asked: 'What is the quintessence of life? What is the fundamental difference between that which is living and that which is not? By what final test shall we determine that a certain object is animate and another inanimate?'"

"A suggestion is now made, which, to say the least of it, is astounding and revolutionary. In a book recently published a distinguished Hindu scientist—Jagadis Chunder Bose, professor of science in the Calcutta University—maintains that the true test of life in an object is its capacity to respond to external stimulus; in other words, its irritability, its sensitiveness. And according to this test he proves conclusively that no essential difference exists between animals and metals; in fine, that a bar of iron is as irritable and sensitive as the human body! More than that; he proves that a bar of metal can be killed—that is, deprived of its sensitiveness forever—just as the human body can be killed. He even shows how our present mistake has arisen; we have called objects non-living that are merely dead—that is, which once were sensitive but are so no longer."

FOLLICULES.

Observations on Some Common Happenings in Everyday Life—Shots Fired to Hit or Miss.

I have known persons to give up their room in the Hotel of Happiness because the room lacked a southern exposure and one or two of the ultra-modern conveniences, says a writer for the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Why try to analyze a sunbeam or a woman's smile?

The most of men are truly brave either the day before or the day after. There are fellows who will not respect you until you have insulted them. It takes an insult to make them realize that you possess intelligence and discrimination.

Immediately after Mister Parvenu has managed to squeeze his prosperous form into the sanctum of society, Mister Parvenu begins to believe that the door of that sanctum should therefore remain hermetically closed.

The weakness of strength is the strength of weakness.

Considering the littleness of the territory to be held, self-possession comes disproportionately hard.

Surely women are not to be blamed for playing with the hearts of men who wear those intimate articles on their sleeves.

Dog Dies of Broken Heart.

A few weeks ago Elliott Henry, the 14-year-old son of Chris Henry, of Pillar Rock, Ore., was accidentally shot and killed, and with him at the time was his collie dog. His dog began to act queerly immediately after the boy's death, and followed the funeral to the grave, and he would not leave it after it had been covered up, remaining till he died.

Automobile Trials.

During the recent automobile trials in Holland 40 autos of different makes competed. One of the racing machines ran into the canal not far from Amsterdam. Others could not be started up at all. At the finish of the race only five cars remained.

DEVICE FOR LUNCH CARDS.

Considerable Ingenuity Displayed in Arranging for Fashionable Country House Affair in the East.

At a luncheon recently given at a fashionable country house the place cards were prettily suggestive of the various nationalities of the young women guests, says the Chicago Chronicle. Each card was an oblong of white drawing paper and painted in water colors with a bar of music from a song characteristic of the particular country, an appropriate bit of landscape being combined with it. Thus the young woman of English descent had a bar of "God Save the King" on her card, and above it a tiny hedge with wild roses painted at the edge of a meadow. The German young woman had the "Watch on the Rhine" for her bar of music, and a miniature view of the famous river and one of its famous castles.

The girl who had a noted French ancestor received a card having a bar of the "Marsellaise" painted on it and a bit of bridge over the Seine. The Scotch lassie had "Here's a Health to Prince Charlie" for her song, and a tiny figure of a highlander crossing a moor on her card. The girl of Irish extraction had a bar of the "Wearing of the Green" and a border of shamrocks. The American girls received "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," and a sketch of the Reliance at anchor as a card decoration. Several of the girls were of New York Knickerbocker stock, and a bar of an old Dutch song, with a sketch of a historical New York locality, were cleverly put together to make up their cards. A bow of orange ribbon tied them.

FIERCE BAND OF INDIANS.

Some of the Curious Beliefs Concerning Our Government Entertained by the Night Hawks.

The Night Hawks are a band of Indians in the Cherokee nation who are incorrigibly opposed to the abolishment of tribal relations. We gather from a story in the Vinita Chieftain the following beliefs of these Indians: They say they will not file on their lands, because they did not enroll when the Dawes commissioners took the census. They claim the United States government has nothing to do with them, and that the secretary of the interior has no power, and that England will come across the water and destroy this government. England will bring suit against the United States for them, and that Uncle Sam will give them back their courts, and that England, Germany, Spain and Cuba will see that this is done.

They claim to have a secret attorney in Washington, and that the president of the United States and Mr. Hitchcock do not know who he is. They claim their attorney is from London. They say this country will never be allotted without their consent. They pin their faith to the old treaty of 1767.

They say they have a treaty with Great Britain dated 1117, on the 41st day of February. Any one who reveals a secret is to be killed like a dog. Some of them claim the Night Hawks will be in Asia next year. Those of them who voted this year are to be exiled to New Mexico. Their lawyer in Washington will have the Indian agent order the Indian police to remove them.

FIDDLES AND HORSE HAIR.

Germany and Russia Furnish Most Essential Part of Violin, Cello and Bass Viol Bows.

"There is a vast amount of horse hair annually used in the United States for making and repairing violin, violoncello and bass viol bows," said a dealer in such materials to a writer for the New York Mail and Express recently. "All of the hair comes from Germany and Russia, in which countries the tails of horses are generally allowed to grow much longer than here. The foreign hair is also coarser in texture and tougher than that which grows on the American horse, and these qualities make the imported article more valuable than the domestic product is for the purpose. There are only two kinds of horse hair suitable for making bows, and they are of the white and black varieties. The former is used for violin bows, and the latter, which is heavier and stronger, is the best material for making bows for cello and bass viols, because it bites the larger strings better. The imported hair is put up in hanks of 36 inches long, which is five or six inches longer than the standard violin bow. A hank is sufficient for one violin bow, while two hanks are required to hair a cello or bass viol bow. There are about one and one-half ounces of hair in a hank, which is worth from 20 to 30 cents, according to the quality of the hair."

WOOD ALCOHOL FIENDS.

Become Able to Drink the Poison Without Apparent Harm Even with Red Dye in It.

A Filbert street shop which does a large business in cleaning and renovating hats had to put up some profuse apologies a few days ago to a customer, owing to a second failure to deliver a title at the time promised, says the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

"I can't help myself," expostulated the proprietor, with voice betokening a broken spirit. "I can't get anybody to help me, and I can't keep 'em when I get 'em. Out in the shed there are two men I employed yesterday. They're shock full of wood alcohol—"

"Wood alcohol?"

"Yes, they get away with a quart or two of it every day. You'd think it would kill them, same as it has others, but they're used to it. I've put dye in it, same as you use on Easter eggs—red dye—but they swilled it down just the same. What can I do about it?"

Remembering the recent carouse in which several men lost their lives by drinking wood alcohol, none can be called a hard drinker whose experiences are confined to nothing more ardent than dry martinis, Jamaica ginger, water-front whisky, straight Worcestershire and Scotch highballs.

Dancers Have Queer Ailment.

There is a painful complaint, declares the Family Doctor, that makes the lives of hundreds miserable, and that is yet never heard of outside the walls of theaters and doctors' consulting rooms. This is "dancers' catarrh," for which no wholly efficacious remedy has been discovered, and through which "as many as a score of members of a great ballet are laid up at one time." The disease is described as a sort of persistent inflammation of the nostrils. The paroxysms begin directly a dance is commenced, causing the nostrils to ache acutely.

PHOTOS OF FREAKS.

Specialty Has Proved Lucrative to Photographer in Gotham—"Takes" Only Living Curiosities.

Not far from the Cooper Union is a photograph gallery devoted almost entirely to freaks, says the New York Times. Sometimes a few pugilists get in there, but as a general thing they patronize a shop kept by an expugilist a little further down the street.

In the freaks' shop you will find at almost any hour of the day giants and dwarfs, skeletons and fat men, human pincushions and sword swallowers—in fact anything that is included in the museum and circus line, on exhibition from ten cents to one dollar. Nothing in the way of a legitimate freak escapes. But once let an outsider—that is, a man whom the patrons of the show do not consider a genuine freak, like the sole Martinique survivor, at Barnum's—get in there, and he gets no picture.

The photographer began with picking up chance freaks in the circus about ten years ago. He personally sought out freaks and took commission on the number of photographs sold in the shows. The freak photographer doesn't do that now. He knows that he has a facility for photographing freaks better than anybody else, just as others excel in sporting scenes and some in handsomely-gowned women. Every man, of any good, in every profession has his strong point; and this man's is in posing freaks to the best advantage. His name is on pictures sold in freak shows in New York or anywhere else this side of San Francisco. His bank account would compare favorably with the bank accounts of many fashionable photographers.

SMALLEST STATE IN EUROPE.

Recently Lost Its Identity by Being Annexed to Belgium—Had Only 1,200 Inhabitants.

Few people are aware that the smallest state in Europe has just ceased to exist, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. The minute country in question was neither Monaco, nor San Marino, nor Andorra, nor yet Liechtenstein, but Moresnet—a small scrap of territory between Belgium and Prussia, not far from Aix-la-Chapelle. The independence of Moresnet dates from 1815, and it was only a few days ago that the two neighboring states at last arrived at any agreement for its absorption.

Moresnet has now been annexed by Belgium, while Prussia receives a pecuniary indemnity. The amount of the latter should be large, for neutral Moresnet contained the most valuable deposits of zinc in the world. The decision was hastened by the establishment of a gambling hell there, which was stopped by the Belgium government.

The inhabitants, who paid no taxes and were free from military service, will be the losers by their compulsory incorporation in the Belgian kingdom. But as there are only 1,200 of them they could not resist the act of annexation. Had they, like San Marino, declined the dangerous gift of a casino they might have remained neutral and obscure.

THESmith & Nixon
Piano Co.

Own and operate one of the largest manufacturing plants in Cincinnati.

We want our Pianos better known here, so we have adopted what we believe to be the most up-to-date method of opening up new territory, selling a limited number of selected Pianos direct from the factory to consumers at factory cost and less.

We invite you to call early and investigate this sale.
Bring your musical friend with you. Examine your neighbor's Piano, ask them the price they paid, and then come and examine our Pianos and get price. You will Save $75 to $100

by cutting out the agent's profit. You will have to act quickly, as we are only here for a few days.

Late News.

Four persons died at Frankfort with small-pox.

A fifteen-year-old boy killed his infant brother at St. Joseph, Mo.

At Urichsville, Ohio, a girl blew off top of her sister's head, with a pistol.

At Eaton, Ohio, a nine-year-old lad accidentally shot his brother.

Carrie Nation, the Kansas cyclone, was ejected from the executive offices at Washington. She had threatened to pray for a prohibition president.

Pithy Points.

Taylor's case was virtually on trial in Kentucky Nov. 3d.

Durbin and Taylor have doubtless been apprised of the news, from Kentucky.

There will likely be some frigidity between Roosevelt and Marcus Hanna from now on.

It ought to be a great matter of surprise to Taylor, the wonderful progress Kentucky has made since he emigrated.
—Maysville Bulletin.

MAYOR J. H. POWELL, of Henderson, Ky., who has made a reputation as a proclamation-writer, is out with a sentiment full of practical suggestion:
"Let gentle charity abide with us. May the atmosphere be filled with the spirit of love. When oysters, turkeys and mince pies abound in plenty, God forgive the mean little fellow who offers unto the wretch in rags a cold potato and bids him go."

ALREADY large numbers of this year's immigrants are returning to Europe, as they are unable to pick up dollars in New York streets, and find it difficult to get work to keep them through the winter. With factories shutting down and railroads suspending work, the labor market is a little over-crowded in America, and we will all speed the parting and uninvited guest. One million were more than we could find work for in one year.

INAGURATION day comes earlier this year than usual, it being on Tuesday, Dec. 8, the statute requiring the new governor to be installed the fifth Tuesday after the election.

Gov. Beckham is said to have made preparations to take a vacation when the legislature adjourns next March.
He intends to make a trip to Yellowstone Park, accompanied by Mrs. Beckham, and probably other members of the family.

During his absence, Col. W. P. Thorne, lieutenant-governor elect, will handle the reins of government in the state.

WILL BE ABSENT.—The turkey will be conspicuous for his absence on many tables on Thanksgiving day, this year, as the crop is scarce and high in price. Injured By Interurban.

While attempting to board a car on the Paris & Lexington interurban line, going at a rate of twenty miles an hour, Tuesday night, Jack Meglone, a workman on the pike, was thrown and probably fatally injured. His left leg was fractured and the bone protruded through the flesh. His skull was also fractured and his body was fearfully bruised. He was taken to the hospital in Lexington, and it is said he cannot survive. George M. Davis, of this city, was the conductor on the car. No blame is attached to the mortorman or conductor.

SMITH-M'KENNEY CO.,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DRUGGISTS, [PHOENIX] HOTEL BLOCK, LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY.

A BOOKISH LOT.

The former Turkish consul general, Ali Nouri Bey, who was sentenced to 101 years' imprisonment because of his connection with a satirical journal, is to bring out a book, "Abdul Hamid in Caricature."

Mark Twain has leased his Tarrytown estate to Charles A. Gardner, a New York lawyer. It is one of the famous places on the Hudson. It is 450 feet above the river and commands an unobstructed view for many miles in all directions. It is beautifully laid out with trees and shrubs. Its collection of trees and shrubs is famous and is supposed to contain every variety that thrives in that locality.

It is said in London that John Morley, whose "Life of Gladstone" is the talk of the day, may have a baronetcy if he cares for so much honor. But it is not likely he will accept, for, like "the great commoner," he is indifferent to such dignity as is supposed to be conferred by a title. Premier Balfour, who occasionally can do a graceful thing, recognizes Mr. Morley's literary ability and according to report has decided to report the historian for a baronetcy in the list of honors to be announced next January.

Hannis Taylor, in his argument before the Alaskan boundary commission, told a story of Edward A. Freeman, the English historian, whom he knew well. On one occasion, when dining with him in a hotel in St. Louis, Mr. Taylor innocently asked him: "Mr. Freeman, what is your estimate of Froude as a historian?" Said Mr. Taylor: "He looked at me in a strange kind of way and then replied: 'I will tell you what I think about Froude. If ever you read anything he writes read it with care; read it over and over and over again and fix it in your mind so that you will never forget it, for then you will know one thing for certain and that is that by no possibility did it ever happen in that way!'"

AMONG THE WOMEN FOLKS.

Polish women are engaged at work as navvies on the dams now being constructed near Bredstedt, Schleswig, Prussia. They are said to work as well as men and for less money.

Sarah Jane Higginson, of New York, is suing the estate from which she rented her apartments, claiming heavy damages for the loss of an eye, due, she alleges, to the lack of heat in her apartments. In April, 1901, the janitor refused to provide a coal fire, but attempted to heat the building with wood, the smoke of which destroyed the sight of one of Mrs. Higginson's eyes.

There is a remarkable coincidence in the lives of Mrs. A. F. Martin and Mrs. James Blain, residents of Whitley county, Indiana. They are twins, nearly 80 years old, never have lived more than five miles apart, each is a great-grandmother and each has seven children. They are widows, their husbands having died within 30 days. Their sister, Mrs. Phoebe Lamson, of Auburn, aged 78, is also a great-grandmother.

Mrs. Toka Nakajima, a Japanese woman living in Honjo, Tokyo, is not what can be called a good representative of the fair daughters of Japan, for her muscular development is extraordinary. She recently lost five yen ($2.50) while playing cards with a carpenter named Kobayashi, who dunned her so persistently for the money that she finally knocked him down, knelt on him and beat him soundly with a pair of tongs. Kobayashi, who sustained some bruises in consequence, is now prosecuting the woman at the Honjo police court.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

Elevator Inspector Branch, of St. Louis, is such a painstaking official that he never pronounces an elevator safe until he has had it drop with him to see if the safety appliances will catch.

Ministers in New York are poking some fairly good fun at Dowle. One of them suggests that the pudgy little man hold his banner before a looking glass, when he will see that "Zion" will be spelled "Noiz." Another intimates that in view of the importance which Elijah III. attaches to the monetary end of the crusade the man from Chicago might be called "Dr. Doughie." It is said that the only New York publication he has not blacklisted is the War Cry.

The Ohio State Liquor league held its annual meeting this year in East Liverpool, whose mayor is W. A. Weaver—the only prohibition mayor in the Buckeye state. Mayor Weaver believes that a man in his position has certain public obligations to fulfill, even though in doing so his own feelings may sustain a shock. So when the liquor men invited him to deliver the address of welcome at their gathering he accepted, much to their surprise. He acknowledged the presence of the convention in courteous language, which gave no hint of compromise as to his own principles. He assumed that the delegates were there for the purpose of furthering their interests in lawful fashion and therefore saw no reason why he should not welcome them.

FURNISHING NOTES.

Mammoth roses stray over carpets and look almost as if they could be picked off.

Some of the new bureaus made in the mission style have the upper part made in sort of small cupboard, lined with cedar and make a good place to store garments from the destroying moth.

A folding writing table is among the novelties in the furniture world and is made in dark wood. When folded it can be placed against the wall and requires little or no space. On opening the writing top is revealed and all the necessary materials are strapped to its top—pen, pencil, ink bottle, paper cutter, etc. It is really a very unique trifle.

OLD BABYLONIAN SCHOOL.

Recently Unearthed by a German Priest While Excavating—Letters Made on Bricks.

Rev. Vincent Scheil, a German priest making excavations in an ancient Babylonian city, has unearthed a school just as it was 4,000 years ago in the time of King Hammurabi.

It is a small house of sunburnt brick and stands in the midst of the most populous district of the city of Seapur, just opposite the great temple. It has many inscribed bricks, from the cuneiform inscriptions on which Father Scheil has reconstructed the life of the ancient Babylonian school. One brick says: "He who learns to write well in the school will shine as the sun."

There were seven small rooms in the school, each with its various kinds of brick. In one room were found bricks with grammatical exercises. The scholars evidently sat on the ground in rows with soft clay bricks in their hands, painfully forming the hard cuneiform letters. Father Scheil says the thumb-marks of the teacher are to be detected where he smudged over the scholars' mistakes. There was a room where advanced scholars learned to write the elaborate and highly poetical forms of adulation often seen on Babylonian monuments. Much importance was attached to learning weights and measures, to arithmetic and geometry, but the chief branches were grammar, writing and the expression of adulatory forms.

There is evidence that girls got pretty much the same education as boys and Father Scheil found contracts in which the language and law had been revised by a learned woman named Amat Baon. There is evidence that a pupil was occupied with learning to write from seven to fourteen years.

AN UNFAMILIAR DIALECT.

London Cockneys Talk Anything But English, Says an American Woman—Visit to "Mobloteh."

An American woman who was lately in London for the first time is convinced that whatever the language may be which the cockneys speak, it is not English. One of her experiences is related by the Washington Post.

The woman wished to see the city all by herself. Somebody told her that if she went to the terminus of some bus line—it did not matter which—and waited a little, she would hear the conductor call out the places on the route, and then could choose that which she wished to visit.

She found a place where buses were arriving and departing, and waited. She heard many curious names, but failed to understand much that the busmen said. Every now and then the man on the step of a bus would call out: "Mobloteh! Mobloteh!" and she wondered what part of London "Mobloteh" might be. She had never heard of it before, and she had been studying London for six months. At last she ventured to address a conductor who looked approachable.

"Will you kindly tell me," she said, "where one takes the bus for Marble Arch?"

The man looked at her pityingly. Her American accent was thick upon her, and he perceived also that she must be deaf. He leaned toward her and drew a long breath. Then he bellowed: "This is your bus, ma'am!" and began to shout "Mobloteh! Mobloteh!" The visitor had let seven "Mobloteh" buses go because she never once guessed that that is the way Marble Arch is pronounced in London.

PAPERMAKING IN CANADA.

Dominion Contains Great Facilities for Manufacture of Wood Pulp—Her Extensive Spruce Forests.

In Canada the subject of water power is obtaining consideration in connection with various industries, says the London Telegraph. One of these is the manufacture of paper from wood pulp. The dominion contains more spruce, the best wood for this purpose, than all the rest of the world put together, and possesses at the same time vastly more unused water power.

According to the Dominion statistician, the spruce forests cover 450,000,000 acres, or about 700,000 square miles—roughly, eight times the area of Great Britain. Year by year the exports of wood and of wood pulp for the making of paper are rising and now the Canadian protectionists are putting forward the demand that they should not export the pulp but the paper; not the raw material but the manufactured article, for the production of which their immense water power gives them enormous advantages. It seems not improbable that ere long a heavy export duty will be levied on wood pulp and that Canada will become a great exporter of paper. She holds the energetic position and can also make her own terms. It is said that nine times as much labor would be required to manufacture paper as is needed simply to export the wood. So far as the United States is concerned, Canada is becoming more and more the one available source of supply and for the New York newspapers alone a clearance of 10,000 acres of forest is necessary every year.

Word with a History.

"Shibboleth" is a word frequently used in modern politics, though it may be doubted whether many politicians know the history of it. Curiously enough, this Hebrew word really means "an ear of corn" as well as a "river;" but its significance for moderns arises from the fact that it was employed as a test to distinguish the Ephraimites from the Gileadites, the former being unable to pronounce the "sh" sound.

Honduras Pack Mules.

Pack mules in Honduras carry 200 pounds in dry weather and 150 in wet weather.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Both Nansen and Sverdrup have declared their firm resolve never to undertake another polar expedition. Sverdrup has left Norway, perhaps for all time. His health has been very poor ever since his return from his last expedition, and he has gone to the Canary Islands, where he expects to remain some years.

Harry Payne Whitney, son of the New York millionaire, has taken to mining in earnest, having gone to work on the Colorado properties in which his father is interested. He declares his intention to master the mining business thoroughly and will qualify himself to make expert examination and reports. John Hays Hammond, the famous mining expert, is his tutor.

James B. Haggin, of California, was the largest individual winner on the American turf last season. His horses landed the handsome sum of $99,007, William C. Whitney coming next with $97,975. Charles Dwyer and "Sim" Daniel, two young men who had little or nothing when the season opened, are third in the list, having cleaned up $81,785. William K. Vanderbilt is ahead just $65.

A rare honor for one of his age has been conferred on Stanley M. Cox, the 12-year-old son of Arthur M. Cox, of Brooklyn, by the Humane Society of Massachusetts in awarding him a bronze medal for bravery in saving life. Stanley saved the life of Frank Deveau, a boy of eight, at East Gloucester on August 13 last. Both boys became unconscious when they were taken from the water. Cox soon recovered, but the Deveau lad was believed to be dead and was not revived for an hour.

The shah of Persia, who received some months ago from his English friend the Order of the Garter, is said to have the most tired appearance of any of the reigning sovereigns. His eyes are weary by the sight of every luxury. During his visit to England all the statuary was removed from Marlborough house out of regard for his susceptibilities, but he showed most interest in his surroundings. One toy did excite his interest, however, and this was a tiny jeweled bird, which sang delightfully.

HEARD AFTER THE PLAY.

One of the most popular actors in Vienna is Ludwig-Martiniell, who has been on the stage 45 years. He is still active in his profession.

At the Urania theater, Buda-Pesth, a play, "Berlin Life," is being produced that deals mostly with the home life of the German emperor. His second son, Prince Eitel Fritz, appears under the name of Archduke Attila.

Miss Alberta Gallatin, who is a daughter of the confederate general, Albert Gallatin, has been denied honorary membership in the Virginia Daughters of the Confederacy because she is acting in the play "Ghosts," which the Virginia daughters condemn on moral grounds.

Prof. Albert Eulenberg, the well-known German neurologist, agrees with Dr. May, Schiller's physician, that actors are more nervous than women. He thinks that the plays of Ibsen, Hauptmann and Bjornson are particularly injurious to them, and mentions the case of one actor who was utterly wrecked by one of the modern realistic plays.

An actress now playing in London wears about $75,000 worth of diamonds every evening. She owns jewels worth $250,000 altogether, including a five-pearl necklace said to be exceeded in value only by a similar decoration possessed by Queen Alexandra. The jewels owned by the player in question are kept in a bank, a man from which brings them to the theater and takes them back at each performance.

A comic opera singer in New York has put to shame all previous efforts in the way of advertising by suing her dressmaker for $1,000 damages because a certain stage costume was cut too low in the corsage. She declares that the gown above the waist consisted largely of two gossamer shoulder straps and that the general effect was not one consistent with modesty. The dressmaker replies that the garment is a copy of one worn by a society leader of irreproachable good taste.

IN OTHER LANDS THAN OURS.

Holland did much for the Boers during the late war and is still aiding them. A Dutch society has been formed for the purpose of helping the burghers to restock their farms. Cattle are to be sent out to the Transvaal and the Orange River Colony, the first herd having been sent from Rotterdam.

The Amazon valley will have at the St. Louis exposition a striking exhibition. Every important product of this wonderful region will be shown, besides many curious exhibits of little-known native life—architecture, tools, weapons, methods of transportation, etc.—as well as a very complete collection of the flora and fauna of the country.

The chief factor in the recent changes in the Russian ministry has been the influence of a certain M. Bezobrazoff, who is spoken of as a favorite of the czar. M. Bezobrazoff began his career by serving in the horse guards regiment. At the beginning of the reign of Alexander III. he became the heart and soul of an organization formed to protect the person of the monarch. In various ways he strengthened his influence at court and during the last few years he has repeatedly laid before the czar memoranda on important affairs of state.

During the past summer there have been many disastrous floods in various parts of Tyrol, Carinthia, Styria and Salzburg. Railway communications have been interrupted, fields have been transformed into lakes and whole villages have been swept away. For some days Bad Gastein was cut off from outside communication, and those visitors who wished to return home had to do so by roundabout routes. The loss caused by floods in 1903, according to official figures, amounted to 500,000,000 crowns ($100,000,000).

Wanted.

We would like to ask, through the columns of your paper, if there is any person who has used Green's August Flower, for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Liver Trouble that has not been cured—and we also mean their relatives, such as sour stomach, fermentation of food, habitual costiveness, nervous dyspepsia, headaches, despondent feelings, sleeplessness—in fact any trouble connected with the stomach or liver? This medicine has been sold for many years in all civilized countries, and we wish to correspond with you and send you one of our books free of cost. If you never tried August Flower, try a 25 cent bottle first. We have never known of its failing. If so, something more serious is the matter with you. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. W. T. Brooks.

Caution!

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase the only remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1863 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boschee's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup—and especially for Consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents.—W. T. Brooks.

Low One-Way Settlers' Rates to the Northwest and California.

From September 15 until November 30, 1903, the Burlington makes very low one-way colonist rates to California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana. The reduction is from 25 to 40 per cent. from the regular rates.

The Way to Go.

The Burlington, with its strong main lines and free chair cars, best reaches the West and Northwest via Denver, Billings or St. Paul.

"The Burlington-Northern Pacific Express" is the great daily through train with chair cars and tourist sleepers via Billings, Montana, to Puget Sound and intermediate points.

To California.

The Burlington's weekly personally conducted California excursions in through tourist sleepers are just the thing for coast tourists and settlers. The route is Denver, scenic Colorado and Salt Lake.

Homeseekers' Excursions.

These are run the first and third Tuesdays of each month at approximately half rates for the round trip. It will be a pleasure for us to give you an accurate and informative reply to any inquiries.

ENGLISH ECHOES.

Writing of British naval progress, Mr. Archibald Hurd says: "At last the officers and men are to be trained for a mechanical navy. Up to the present they have been fitted for a fleet of sailing ships, and have learned an immense amount of lore of an art which has ceased to have any bearing on the conduct of war afloat."

Mr. Chamberlain gets his recreation by working in his garden. He often writes till late at night. In the morning he reads the newspapers in bed and afterward attends to his correspondence, which consists of about 200 letters a day. For his speeches he uses facts specially collected for him by experts and he always rehearses speeches in the presence of his secretary.

After 50 years' service in the police department, two decades of which were spent as special guardian of persons of royal rank, Detective Inspector Sweeney, of Scotland Yard, has retired on a generous pension. Sweeney is known in all the courts of Europe and was selected for his special duty because of his stylish appearance and aristocratic manner. During the late years of Queen Victoria's life he accompanied her wherever she went, but hardly any knew he was a detective.

Sir William Harcourt, a political rival, but still an admirer of Disraeli, once paid a pretty compliment to Lady Beaconsfield. He was dining with the Disraelis, and sat beside the hostess, who observed that he was looking at the picture of a lightly-robed lady on the wall opposite, and said: "It oughtn't to be allowed in here; but it is nothing to the Venus that Dizzy has up in his bedroom." "That I can well believe," replied he, with a gallant bow. This was one of the rare occasions on which Disraeli is said to have smiled.

Premier Balfour is credited with saying a very graceful thing to a young woman of his acquaintance recently. He was out driving one afternoon and passed the girl, who was seated in her auto. She smiled, but the premier did not respond. After he had passed some distance the young woman started after him to learn why he had treated her thus. She soon overtook Mr. Balfour and the two conveyances were stopped side by side. "You passed me a few moments ago without looking at me," said the girl, reproachfully. To which the premier gracefully replied: "If I had seen you I could not have passed you."

IN GOVERNMENT CIRCLES.

The last congress created 11,316 new offices and employments, at an annual compensation of $7,927,629. As the congress also abolished 1,815 offices, the net increase is 9,501, with an aggregate of $6,986,158 in salaries and wages.

Juan Navarro has been Mexican consul general in New York city for 40 years. Senor Navarro is 80 years old, but is still in vigorous mental and physical health. He has just returned to his post from the City of Mexico, where he has been on a vacation. The old gentleman enjoys in marked degree the confidence of President Diaz and other Mexican officials.

Senator Gibson, of Montana, 73 years old and a widower, is being suggested as the next of the elderly solons to take unto himself a wife. Chauncey Depew declares that Cupid is running riot in the "upper house," and it may be that Mr. Gibson may be driven into matrimony. His colleague, Mr. Clark, 64 years old, is a widower also, as is Millard, of Nebraska, 67; Daniel, of Virginia, 61; Dillingham, of Vermont, 60, and Warren, of Wyoming, 59.

Hawaii's board of health has of late had many applications for licenses to sell liquor at the leper settlement on Molokai. The argument used by those who seek the licenses is that without any licensed sale of liquors the illicit sale of liquors of different kinds goes on very actively. The board has adopted a resolution setting forth its purpose not to license any drinking places on Molokai and its determination to put down if possible the illicit sale of intoxicating liquors.

It is expected that during the coming season in Washington the German embassy will be a scene of much social interest, as Baroness von Sternberg, wife of the ambassador, is a most charming hostess. The embassy, under his direction, has been embellished in admirable fashion, much of the decoration having been done under the immediate supervision of Miss Violet Langham, sister of the baroness and an artist of ability. A younger sister, Miss Ivy Langham, will probably be a member of the ambassador's family during the winter.

FEMININE PHILOSOPHY.

There was once a man who was not spoiled by being lionized. His name was Daniel.

When you wish to convey the subtlest and most delicate flattery to a man, ask him for advice. It isn't necessary to follow it.

The trouble with most men in love is that they want to hurry. Occasionally there is one that understands that every stage on the way is most interesting and should be made the most of.

In the long migrations of the birds from north to south, in the journeys of the black-tail deer of the Rockies, when death lurks by the pathway to their summer or winter homes; in the wild stampede of the buffalo that once ranged the mighty plains—we never hear of a "weaker sex." Queer.

They say that a certain young woman now inspecting tenements under the tenement-house department of New York had the highest marks of any one of the 3,500 or so candidates who have taken the examinations. Her general average was 97, and she used to be forewoman of a pickle factory. Nice to see plain working people forge ahead some-

THE FARMER DAIRYMAN.

If He Raises His Own Feed He Can Make His Cows Pay a Handsome Profit.

Perhaps nine-tenths of the dairy products of this country are produced from farms where dairying is but one of several branches of agriculture carried on, and it is best that this should be so, for mixed farming is the most profitable system, and dairying in connection with the growing of field crops and other stock is best for the land as well as for the man who owns it, says Dairy and Creamery.

There are farms in this country which have actually been impoverished and very much reduced in value because for a long series of years cows have been kept on them and the milk from them sold to cities or condensing factories or taken off the farm for some other purpose.

There is a vast difference between selling the butter fat to a creamery and returning the skim-milk to the farm and selling the whole milk. But very little fertility is taken off the farm when butter alone is sold. The butter is produced from sun and air, the elements being taken up by growing plants and transformed into feed for the cows and then returned in the way of butter fat.

The mineral elements in the milk and the nitrogen in it in the shape of protein are the things we want to keep on the farm, and but a trifling quantity of these is carried away when butter fat alone is sold.

The farmer who keeps a few cows and raises his own feed is the one who gets the best price for his feed and the most money from his cows, providing he sells only the butter fat.

This being true, it follows that every such dairy farm should plan to produce on his own farm as large a quantity of the best feed he can, and the capacity of the farm will increase in the course of years in exactly the same ratio that the farmer takes advantage of the means at his command to make his farm more fertile and his crops greater.

We have not yet reached that looked for period when we can keep a cow on every acre of land, but it is entirely within the limits of possibility to do this.

The land should be drained. The farmer who has a well-drained farm is, to a large extent, independent of abnormal weather conditions, whether it be too wet or too dry. Well-drained land produces a better crop in any kind of a year than does land not drained.

UNIQUE YANKEE NOTION.

Thrifty Connecticut Farmer Makes Automobile Do Service as a Farm Pump.

That the typical "down east" yankee is a hard man to down has long been generally understood, but was perhaps never better demonstrated than by the manner in which Andrew

AUTO DOING DUTY AS PUMP.

Waters, of Hartford, Conn., turned his auto into a pump.

Mr. Waters' stationary engine attached to the water supply was broken mysteriously just at a time of day when a large quantity of water was required to satisfy the thirst of his cattle. To repair the engine would take several days, and Mr. Waters needed a substitute at once.

In his emergency he backed his automobile up to the well-house, elevated the rear wheels clear of the ground, affixed a belt, and applied the juice.

Answer: Plenty of water, satisfied cattle, and a contented farmer.

And yet some people think an auto has no good use.—Chicago Journal.

Butter Making a Science.

Within recent years many changes have taken place in butter making. It was formerly supposed that most any one who was neat and tidy could make good butter. Since investigations have been pursued along scientific lines we find that it requires skilled labor, says Stockman and Farmer. The men who are pursuing dairying at our schools now are possibly 25 per cent. in advance both in education and skill of the students who took dairy work seven or eight years ago. As we look the country over we find the people who have become famous in the dairy world are men of unusual intelligence, who would undoubtedly have made a success in most any other line of business.

Planting Evergreen Seeds.

Evergreen seeds may be planted in beds of leaf mold mixed with sand. The seeds should be covered with a little sand wet with water, and clean hay put over the bed until the seeds germinate. After the plants appear they may be shaded with screens of laths, watered in dry weather, and have dry sand sprinkled around them in wet weather to prevent too much dampness. Seeds of evergreens are often germinated and the plants well started only with great difficulty, and skill is requisite for success.

THE GINSENG ROOT.

On Account of Its Peculiar Shape It Is Regarded with Reverence by the Chinese.

The remarkable resemblance to the human figure which this root bears has caused the Chinese to regard ginseng with a superstitious reverence. They believe it is a panacea for all the ills to which human flesh is heir. The root was photographed just as it was dug from the ground in a ginseng garden near Cuba, N. Y. As will be noted, its resemblance to the human form is wonderful, for it has a waist, head and neck, arms and legs. It is one of the most valuable products which grows from the soil, and a large quantity of it is used in America for medicinal purposes.—Chicago Journal.

THE SIZE OF ORCHARDS.

Many Beginners Make a Mistake by Cultivating Too Small a Tract at First.

It is almost as difficult and expensive to care for five acres of orchard trees as it is for ten, and it is misplaced energy to attempt to plant orchards too small to occupy one's full time, says M. T. Warring, in American Cultivator. As a good deal of modern orcharding expense consists in the labor of spraying and fighting insects, it will pay better to have an orchard large enough to warrant one in purchasing the necessary apparatus to spray properly. A large orchard also tends to protect itself from the winds, and in winter and summer there may be a considerable saving from this. The trees on the outside nearly always produce less than those inside.

If one is going to have an apple or other fruit orchard, it is just as well to have a fine one as an ordinary kind. The latter will not cost much more in the end, and it will prove profitable, while the former will not. Plant trees of well known marketable varieties and get good specimens from reliable dealers. Spray them every season and protect them from pests of all kinds. Do not let them injure themselves by bearing heavily the first few years. Pluck off the blossoms or fruit, so that no limb or branch will be strained. Over-production at an early age is deadly to a good tree. Each year set out new trees in the place of any that may be injured or killed. Do not have a ragged orchard, but try to make every tree come up to the standard. This can be easily done if one has ordinary intelligence, and will give the time to the work. Use only cultivated crops in the apple orchard. Wheat, oats and timothy are bad for the trees. They take too much from the soil, but cultivated crops, seeding the land to clover or cow peas every few years, will produce excellent results.

Covering Peach Trees Pays.

Several years ago the writer participated in the work of laying down peach trees in autumn and covering them in various ways to protect them through the winter and spring. This plan has been tried in various ways almost every year, and nearly always with success. In a season like the present one, when peaches promise to be a rarity, any scheme of carrying the fruit buds through the freezing weather is especially attractive. Prof. W. Paddock has recently reported the success of several growers in various parts of Colorado who have been practicing this method. They find it profitable as a commercial venture. It looks like an impracticability, to be sure, to lay down and partially cover a fruiting tree every fall; but it has been shown repeatedly that it is perfectly feasible. The expense is only about ten to 15 cents a tree, and even a dozen good peaches will almost cover that cost.—Country Gentleman.

A Modern Dairy Fable.

They organized and built a creamery, hired an expert, made fine butter, sold all they could make and were making money. The son of the principal stockholder got the idea that he would like to be a boss butter maker. He knew nothing about making butter, and his idea was based on his ignorance. Influence was used, the expert was "resigned," and pa's boy took his place. At once things went. Purchasers returned the alleged, not "gilt edged," butter and wrote, "When we want axle grease we will let you know." In a month pa's boy's butter had ruined the reputation of the creamery. The other stockholders then kicked pa and his boy out, hired the expert back, and prosperity returned with him. Moral—"The 'pull' may generally be depended upon to sprain the business that is subjected to it.—N. Y. Farmer.

FREE RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

"The Henderson Route"—Always First

The traveling public will be pleased to learn of the latest innovation in the way of comfort in travel for its patrons which is now being offered by that most popular railroad, the "Henderson Route," which road has been rightly termed the "Kentucky's Official Route to the West and Southwest."

It has just been announced from the general office of the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis Railway that they now have in service on their night trains between Louisville and St. Louis, Free Reclining Chair Cars, which have just been received from the shops and are a revelation in the car builder's art.

The cars are strictly up-to-date, first-class "palaces of travel" on wheels, and this is only one of the many surprises which are promised the public for the World's Fair travel by the Henderson Route.

Among other advantages offered in these highly finished cars, a few of the most important points only are mentioned:

They are solidly vestibuled and are furnished with sixty-four reclining chairs, which are upholstered in beautiful green plush, in addition to smoking and toilet rooms, the smoking rooms being finished throughout in leather. They are also fitted up with triple trucks, which feature will do away with the jerk, jolt and strain incident to travel in the ordinary railway coach, and insures a smooth, comfortable ride. This should prove more than a popular feature in train service to the traveling public, and you can only suggest that in traveling you "get the 'Henderson Route' habit."

AMUSEMENTS.

—Neil McNeil, a member of the "Miss Bob White" comic opera company, was badly cut up by a ruffian, at Wheeling, W. Va., while playing the part of a peace-maker. Mr. McNeil is a personal friend of Maurice Hedges, of this county, with whom he traveled for several seasons.

—One of the most pleasing entertainments to be seen at the local Opera House, this season, will be that of Lyman Howe's moving pictures, which will play in this city, under the auspices of Paris Lodge No. 373, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, on Dec. 7th. The public really has no conception of how really artistic and novel in effect motion pictures can be until they have seen these.

Showed The White Feather.

The advertised game of foot ball did not take place last Saturday on account of the Paris club having a number of Lexington players with them, to which our boys objected.—Carlisle Mercury.

Our esteemed contemporary should have made a more diligent inquiry into facts concerning the failure of the game to be pulled off.

The Carlisle manager telephoned for the line up of the Paris team. The names were furnished and word received to come ahead. There were no Lexington players, nothing but local talent on the team. The fact is, the Carlisle boys knew in advance the make-up of the Paris team and our boys, in good faith and at considerable expense, made the trip only to find a spirit among the Carlisle players of being outclassed. Hence they weakened and declined to play, showing the white flag of surrender and in order to make some display, alleged the importation of Lexington material. Bosh!
